Why are we doing this ?

- UK generates the second-highest amount of e-waste per capita in the world, with 23.9 kg
- An iPhone 16 128GB generates 44.8kg CO₂e or 80% of its CO₂ emissions during its production
- An iPhone contains an estimated 30 chemical elements, metals like aluminum, copper, lithium, silver and gold.
- Buying refurbished slows down new production
- Buying just 1 brand-new laptop generates 316 KG of CO₂, 190,000 litres of water, and 1,200 kg of dirt.

It's good for both your pocket and the planet

Why does it matter to HR?

- “Two in five workers (42%) aged 18-34 believe that poor sustainability initiatives have a detrimental impact on their morale at work.” (Recent research by Zest)
- While many businesses are focused on scope 1 and 2 emissions a key area that can be overlooked in sustainability is benefits packages.
- The UK government has committed to achieving net-zero greenhouse gas emissions by 2050. For public sector contracts, the UK government requires businesses to have a carbon reduction plan.
- Investors are placing greater emphasis on Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG) factors when making investment decisions.
- HR are increasingly being asked by stakeholders to demonstrate how they are supporting ESG initiatives and the Carbon Reduction plan.
